

Strengthening Your Cybersecurity Strategies in a New Age of Technology

Summary of Discussion

As cybercrime continues to grow, individuals and businesses across the globe have firsthand witnessed the detrimental effects. To combat the latest cybersecurity threats, business leaders and their employees must play a key role in strengthening the protection of their most valuable assets and information. Please join Rachel Wilson, Chief Data Officer of Morgan Stanley Wealth Management and former Senior Executive of the National Security Agency, as she shares her unique perspective on the critical risks organizations face today and advice on developing a resilient cybersecurity program in an ever-evolving cybersecurity landscape.